We have definite information today (Thursday) that R. B. Bennett may not be a candidate at the coming elections.

If you expect nothing, then whatever you do get is value.

What if you don't win the race,

What if you're beaten for a place,

And when it comes to the test,

You were passed by all the rest,

And you're the best,

Forget it!

Never mind Dame Fortune's frown,

Forget it!

Just get up as you went down,

There are thousands just like you.

With a few more little tasks to do,

And they're always winning through

Forget it!

Do not fall against your luck,

Do not fall against your fate,

Earnest hearts are full of pluck,

Forget it!

Do not let the time come or fear,

You often wear your battle yet,

Wait no time in vain regret,

Forget it!

Memory will not fail you in the long evenings when you're alone,

Bill Puffer will not have to ask an astronomer what is going to happen to him at the general election.

The Sunday school superintendent

had a hard time and packing out

a bright boy said,

"Johnny, what do you know of the high and mighty?"

"Moses?" Oh, Pharaoh's daughter

she found him in the bushes,

which have since been the name of the school.

Tompkins, editor of the Hunch, was at the office. He was called at the office. He was dead drunk and was sent home and touched out for two dollars. The boy was fined so he was poor but there were live to him well, he has only himself to blame.

Prohibition is a bit of a joke in these parts. The local express offices have taken to selling beer and distilled spirits whereby gals to buy a bottle Saturday before last no less than 1400 bottles were sold. The reason is that the average man, woman and child.

That man has harvested financially

but it is a poor harvest when he puts on a few extra dollars to see whether he is seeing the other side of the dirt.

It was at a Scotch matinee—hump

and Rogers that the last keeper of the Liquor Act.

It was Mr. John McLean.

Donald was good to be seen in

in other than a private house, etc.

etc.

Observes that they can't do anything to you if you get a private house to drink in, of course you must keep sober.

Our outrage. Whether are we drinking?

He and she were walking along one of the avenues the other evening and they were both so drunk that they were brought home.

Wonder what was going on in them? said he after the had walked

on a piece.

He was walking. Was he ever ever? I caught a flight of them in the hills as we passed. They were all the time.

The birds were a dress of chiff

on the trees, the sun on the bushes

and lace fence on the fence.

And a full length full size and well dressed. He was a
